TO
MRS. CARRIE G. K. AMBROSE
WE DEDICATE
THE MILESTONE OF 1936

Mrs. Ambrose has probably known more boys at the Academy than has any other person. She was herself a student here in the days when a limited number of girls from the vicinity were enrolled. Since her graduation sixty years ago she has resided continuously in the neighborhood and has never failed to attend the commencement ceremonies; and it is for her that many returning alumni first inquire on those occasions. The increased contacts with the School resulting from her duties as postmistress of South Byfield and landlady of Ambrose House have in late years served to deepen the affection with which she is regarded by us all.

Governor Dummer Academy and Its Early Associations with Harvard College

During their long histories Harvard College and Governor Dummer Academy have had much in common. To begin with, each was the first educational institution of its type in America. Although the life of the School has been little over half the span of the College, it is interesting in this year of Harvard's three hundredth anniversary to recall the associations which the two enjoyed in their earlier years which in part continue to this day.

These relationships begin with the Dummer family. 1636 is a memorable year not alone in Harvard history, for it was then that Richard Dummer first settled in Newbury, held the first court in Ipswich as a magistrate, and was elected Treasurer of the Colony. Twenty years later one of his five sons, Shubael, received his degree from Harvard. Far more significant, however, was the graduation of Jeremy in 1699. He was the brother of Governor William Dummer, the Founder of the School. Not only was he listed at the head of his class in social ranking, but it is reported that President Increase Mather said he was "by far the best scholar" that had been at Harvard. What a pity that after he became agent from Massachusetts in London a graduate of Jeremy's promise should have been so misguided as to bend all his energies toward interesting one Elihu Yale in a struggling college in Connecticut!

If this brother aided a sister institution, William, though not a graduate, was to serve Harvard. When Governor Shute abruptly sailed away to England in 1723, William found himself not only Acting Governor of Massachusetts but, ex-officio, head of the Board of Overseers of the College. For seven years he presided over their meetings, and upon the induction of a new President it was he who delivered to the new incumbent the College keys, records, and seal. Probably his well-known tact more than once benefited the College during the unfortunate squabbles of that day among the Overseers, the Corporation, and the legislature. The inscription upon the early print on the following page bears witness to the respect with which Harvard regarded him. The compliment was returned when upon his death in 1761 the Governor left £66 for the purchase of books for the College Library and £133 to be added to the salaries of two of the professors.

It was to the same will in this year, of course, that the School owes its origin, and through its provisions the Harvard ties became even stronger. The Trustees of the Governor's estate who were responsible for the establishment of the School—Foxcroft, Chauncy, and Nathaniel Dummer—were all Harvard men. (Chauncy was a descendant of the third degree from Harvard's second President.) According to the terms of the will the Master of the School once chosen should "remain Master . . . without any removal, unless thro' sickness, advanced years and inability, or by a profligate wicked Life, he shall be adjudg'd & sentenc'd by a majority of the over-

Early View of Harvard College

A Prospect of the Colleges in Cambridge in New England

The above engraving, the earliest contemporary view of the Harvard buildings, was done by William Burgis in 1726. Upon close examination it will be seen that the inscription reads:

*To the Honourable William Dummer Esq^r.
Lieutenant Governour of s^t
Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England this view is most humbly Dedicated*

*By your Honour's
Most Obedient, most humble
Serv^t.
W^t: Burgis*

Harvard Hall (at the left) was burned in 1764, but Massachusetts (right), only six years old at this time, still stands today.

seers of Harvard Colledge to be displaced" and that in such a case the Master and freeholders of Byfield should appoint another person to be Master "to all intents & purposes as if y^e former was naturally dead."

The Harvard Overseers had this awesome responsibility for less than twenty years, and never had to exercise their prerogative, for in 1792 it was decided to take the management of the School out of the hands of the local parish and establish a corporation. If Harvard lost one right by this change, however, she gained another. By the Act of Incorporation it was provided that if for a period of "two years together" the School should cease to exist, then all "rents, profits, and issues" of the original Dummer estate should revert to the rightful heirs. The "rents, profits, issues, and interests" of any other property or endowment which the School may have acquired since the original bequest, unless willed otherwise, "shall enure to the use and benefit of the Corporation of Harvard College and their successors forever." Although at one time some of the Trustees asked Harvard to relax this right, President Eliot refused to do so. It is still in existence today, and as late as 1908 when a mortgage was placed upon the School property the Harvard Corporation was asked for its assent. It was officially granted on October 12 of that year and duly noted in the College records.

If Harvard thus has certain claims upon the School it is interesting to note that for many years the School had a very definite claim upon Harvard. It appears from a study of the accounts of the College Treasurers that shortly after the founding of the School Samuel Moody, the Master, began receiving from private individuals a fund which was to be invested by the Treasurer of Harvard, the interest of which was to be used "for the support of a writing master" for the scholars. The fund gradually accumulated but, unfortunately, during that time it was in the hands of John Hancock whose Treasurership of Harvard College is a story of gross neglect. When Hancock left Cambridge to serve this country at Philadelphia, he carried the College accounts with him, and try as the Corporation did, even after his resignation, they failed to make a complete settlement with him. In 1778 Moody himself addressed a letter to the new Treasurer requesting that he do everything in his power towards investigating the loss of this money, and enclosed receipts he had received from Hancock for money which had been deposited with him. Although a large part of the debt which Hancock owed to Harvard College was never paid even after his death, we find in the accounts of Treasurer Storer that in 1786 the debt to the School was finally paid off. A note from Hancock for £288 and 19s. was turned over in that year to "Jon^a Greenleaf, Esq., one of the Trustees, who by virtue of a power given him for that purpose gave a full discharge to the College from all demands from said Academy."

At the time of the School's incorporation Harvard College and Phillips Academy were the only other such institutions in Massachusetts. Nine of the fifteen charter Trustees were Harvard men including the Master, Samuel Moody, of the Class of 1746, and Joseph Willard, of the Class of 1765, a former pupil of Moody's at the York Grammar School and during the term of his Trusteeship, President of Harvard. It is interesting to recall in this connection that besides Willard five other Harvard Presidents served on the Board in an unbroken line beginning with Edward Everett in 1848 and ending with Eliot's predecessor in 1870.

The early Masters of the School likewise had Harvard affiliations. In a small volume entitled Harvard Memories President Eliot speaks of the fact that in the middle of the eighteenth century Harvard began to prepare a notable number of men for distinguished public and professional life. Samuel Moody '46 is one of five alumni cited to prove this point.

Isaac Smith, the second Master, was a Harvard man, a Tutor there in 1774-75, and just before his appointment at Byfield was the College Librarian and prepared the first printed catalogue of the Library.

Although Allen, his successor, was not a Harvard man, it is interesting that his name was suggested to the Trustees by President Kirkland. His short term was followed by that of Abiel Abbott, Harvard 1787, who had been a Tutor after graduation.

It is of course the graduates who have given the School its most intimate and striking relationships with Harvard. In the first fifty-six years of the School 203 graduates received their degrees at Cambridge, and three-quarters of these were pupils of Samuel Moody during his twenty-seven years as Master. Six of these graduates in later years received honorary recognition from their alma mater. One was Samuel Phillips of Andover, and another was Rufus King, who received his LL.D. on the same platform with Mr. Justice William Paterson of New Jersey and Chief Justice John Marshall.

Ten of Moody's pupils and three of Smith's held appointments at Harvard on the teaching staff or governing boards. Oddly enough, the first of these was Jonathan Eames, who was a Tutor from 1778-80. Although the number of graduates on the Harvard faculty at various times may not be so striking since the School was the only one of its type in Massachusetts for fifteen years, yet the rank which many of these attained testifies to the excellent preparation they received. Just before the turn of the century the Harvard staff (exclusive of two professors of medicine) consisted of a president, three endowed professors, a French instructor, and from three to four tutors. During the eleven years from 1792-1803 every one of these first four positions was filled by a former pupil of Samuel Moody and for all but four of these years so was the librarianship. Willard was President, and the professors were David Tappan, Hollis Professor of Divinity, Eliphalet Pearson (first principal of Phillips Academy), Hancock Professor of Hebrew and Other Oriental Languages, and Samuel Webber, Hollis Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.

Of the other graduates who rose to distinction, Theophilus Parsons served on the Corporation, Dudley Atkins Tyng on the Board of Overseers, and William Prescott on both. James Jackson was one of the earliest professors of medicine, then called "the Theory and Practice of Physic." Parker Cleaveland, later to become a distinguished professor at Bowdoin, was a tutor at Harvard for two years; and it is interesting at this time to note that he represented his class of 1799 on the alumni committee which sent out the invitations to all Harvard men to return for the two hundredth anniversary celebration in 1836.

The most interesting and almost amusing episode in this story of the School's sons at Harvard centers around the election of Samuel Webber to the presidency in 1806. As you will see, a pupil of Moody's was either President of Harvard or a member of the Corporation for thirty consecutive years. When Willard's twenty-two year term ended with his death in 1804, Pearson, who besides being a professor had for several years been an active member of the Corporation, was chosen Acting President until a successor could be elected. Eventually in 1806 the choice was between Pearson and Webber. When the latter was elected Pearson was so incensed that he tendered his resignation to the Corporation and returned to Andover to teach in the Theological Seminary. To complete the story, his place on the Corporation was taken by none other than Theophilus Parsons, who served until 1812. Webber died in 1810 and although his term was short his colleagues mourned the loss of "a learned, faithful, industrious, and pious President." The inscription on his grave in the Mt. Auburn Cemetery notes in Latin that he was a native of Byfield.

The School still has many relationships with Harvard College, but of course, never since these early years have they been quite so close. Although today Governor Dummer Academy is proud of the diversity of its collegiate interests on the part of students and faculty alike, it treasures these early associations with the country's oldest College.

THE MILESTONE, having presented another historical feature article, concurs with Herman Melville in the saying: "And duration is not of the future but of the past."

We are indebted to Mr. Stephen Stackpole, former member of the Governor Dummer faculty and now secretary to the President of Harvard University, for his valuable contribution on the relationship of this school and Harvard College in the early days.

German Exchange Student

Hans Bosenius, a student of the government school at Ploen near Kiel in Germany, studied during the fall term at Governor Dummer, and he left a lasting memory with us all. He came to the Academy under an exchange plan whereby Henry Petri, '35, of Brookline spent a term at school in Germany. Teachers and students alike watched with pleasure Hans' progress in speaking English until he gained almost complete mastery; they could not fail to be impressed by his advance from the second honor roll in the first month to the first honor roll in the two succeeding months, by his ever increasing skill as a member of the light-heavyweight football team, especially in his long place kicking, and by his warm friendliness.

Hans' talk on the schools of Germany at the evening meeting of December 4, brought long cheers from the student body. It was often in speech or in writing that he would make some kindly comparison between American schools and his own. On the occasion of his talk he was presented with a gold football by the members of Perkins and Moody Houses.

The entire School was sorry to see Hans leave to return to Germany, and it is hoped that his stay here meant as much to him as it did to the masters and boys of Governor Dummer Academy.

The Football Season

MR. EAMES
Coach

The 1935 football season was probably the most successful for the Governors in the history of the Academy. The team completed its six game schedule without defeat. Its singular success was chiefly because of its capacity for functioning as a unit rather than depending upon individual players. It was coached by the Headmaster, Mr. Edward W. Eames. Mr. Hearn and Mr. Sager, both of the faculty, assisted. Paul Comins, who had won his football letter for the seasons of 1933 and 1934, was the able captain.

In the first contest the Governors subdued the Andover Seconds, 34-6. Joe Hoague did some heavy scoring in the game, which was featured by Floyd's sixty-yard run for a touchdown. The team, again working well together, beat Tabor Academy the following week by the score of 40-7. Four of Governor Dummer's touchdowns were made by Floyd and two by Hoague.

The third encounter saw a hard-fighting Thayer Academy eleven defeated by the Governors, 14-0. Failing to be discouraged when the ball was left on the Thayer one-yard line at the end of the first half, the team opened the third quarter with a steady march for a touchdown. Dick Curtis plunged through the line for the score.

The only game in which the team failed to obtain any points was the traditional contest with Deerfield Academy, which was played at Deerfield. It took place in a light rain and was played before two ardent groups of followers. On one occasion Batten crossed the opponents' goal-line on a pass from Hoague. The touchdown was not allowed, however, because of an off-side penalty. At the end of the last period the Governors tried, without success, to kick a field-goal from the Deerfield five-yard line. The final score was 0-0.

The next game resulted in a 26-0 win for the Governors over the Harvard Freshman Seconds. One touchdown was made on a forty-yard run by Hoague after he had intercepted a Harvard pass. Two other touchdowns were by Hale, and one by Curtis.

The last and most important struggle was with Moses Brown at Providence. The players were expecting to meet the hardest opponents of the season since up to that time the Moses Brown eleven had not been defeated. The Governors overcame them, however, in a hard-fought and well-played game, 14-7. Plunging by Floyd and Hoague carried the ball to the Moses Brown five-yard line in the second quarter. A well executed spot pass from Hoague to Hale brought the Governors their first score. Hale's spectacular cutback in the third quarter accounted for the second tally. Donnelly kicked both extra points. Moses Brown succeeded in scoring on a forty-five yard forward pass to their quarterback in the last period.

Many good players contributed their effort and ability in the making of the winning season. Aaron Goodale and Ed Donnelly did well at end positions. Donnelly not only received many passes but was very successful in place-kicking the points after touchdowns. Dick Francis and Walter Loeman proved a strong pair of tackles, and Captain Comins, Adolph Haffenreffer, and Jack Connolly bolstered the center of the line. Morgan Batten called the plays capably. Joe Hoague showed great ability as fullback. Floyd and Hale, who held down the halfback assignments, were a smooth-working, hard-driving pair. Dick Curtis, Tom Logan, Rollin Steele, and John Barrows were able substitutes in most of the games.

At a banquet held just before the end of the fall term the lettermen were presented with gold footballs. The success of the present season was, as has been said, because of the way in which the players worked together. From the first game they showed a high sense of team spirit. This spirit was given the necessary help from beginning to end by the coaches, and much credit should be given to Mr. Eames and his assistants.

The Hockey Season

MR. PHIPPEN
Coach

The hockey team experienced a fine season of aggressiveness and strength this year mainly because of the coaching efforts of Mr. Phippen and Mr. Morey Eames. Although the scoring record shows against the team, the cooperation and clean playing of the sextet made the defeats seem less important.

The first game was played here against a team from Amesbury High School. The Governors were held to a 1-1 tie partly because of the inexperience of their players. The only goal for the Academy was made by Dick Pierce who scored unassisted after a score had been made by Amesbury.

In the next game the team was strengthened by Joe Hoague who played excellently on the defense throughout the season. This time the opponents were the same Amesbury team, and the game was won for the Governors.

On January 29, the Governors went to Dover, N. H., and were beaten by a strong Dover High School team. This was Art Ross' first showing in the front line, and to prove his worth, he made for the team its only goal. Marvin Fox took Art's place in the cage, and was a credit to his side, making over forty stops. In a return game with the Dover team at the Amesbury rink the score turned out to be 1-1.

The next two games proved to be defeats for the Governors. The outfit from Thayer was too powerful and that from Belmont Hill too experienced.

The contest in which the team played its best all-around game was against the Brooks School. The pass and defensive play of Len Poor, Steele, Floyd, and Carver was unusually effective.

A strong forward line and good goalie helped the Deerfield Academy team to win the next game. The Governors were; however, on the offensive most of the time, and Hale was outstanding in the enemy territory.

The final game of the year was played in the Boston Garden against the Roxbury Latin School. The team showed that it had gained considerably in the technique of playing hockey, especially Sargent who scored the first goal.

It is hoped that with Joe Hoague, Dick Pierce, Len Poor, and Art Ross returning the team of 1937 will find it has good strength for a successful season.

The Basketball Season

Coach

The Governor Dummer basketball five completed a very successful season, defeating ten of its twelve opponents, and conquering among them the powerful Andover and Salem Normal aggregations.

Easily subduing Austin Cate, nosing out Portsmouth Priory, and overcoming Lawrence Academy in a game in which Donnelly scored seven baskets in the last half, the team showed good promise. It encountered its first defeat, however, at the hands of Deerfield, but made up for this defeat by scoring over Milton, and stopping Andover in a contest in which every man played with brilliance. In the latter conflict the Governors led by one point at the half. Donnelly and Captain Batten tied for scoring honors with ten points apiece.

Exeter overpowered the Governors, and it was here that Freddie Zins' usually steady game became outstanding. Obtaining a 20-19 lead at the half, the Governor team went into the third period with great fight. Although they played well, they were not strong enough to withstand the effective Exeter attack, and were defeated by nine points.

The season's climax came in the hard-fought contest with Salem Normal. The outcome remained in doubt until the last few minutes, when the Red and White rolled up a safe lead. Dick Francis was the main Governor asset in this game; his defensive work under the basket and his effectiveness at center were largely responsible for the victory.

Ed Donnelly, who was high-scorer of the season with 150 points, made a record which can compare favorably with that of Johnnie Frank in 1934. The sterling play of Captain Morgan Batten was one of the chief assets of the team, and the steadiness of Fred Zins' game was notable. Bob Hale made a shifty guard who was able to give his best under all conditions. Stewart proved to be one of the most valuable of substitutes. The two baskets that he scored when he was put in the Austin Cate contest in the second half were the turning-point of the game, which otherwise might have been a loss. Goodale, Follansbee, Lawler, and Whyte helped in giving that support which is so necessary to a good quintet. Mr. Hearn, whose first season it was as head coach, was, of course, greatly responsible for the success of the present team.

The Cross Country Season

JOHN WELLS

The first season of the cross country team at Governor Dummer may not be considered successful in the number of meets won, but it was successful in the experience, training, and form that it gave the participants. Not only the squad but the School enjoyed the activity for the two paper chases that were held. A paper chase is in other words a fox-and-hound hunt. Two boys acted as "foxes" and, as they ran, scattered a torn-paper trail which had many false side-trails. The rest of the runners, or the "hounds," sometime after the "foxes" had started, tried to follow the main trail to catch the quarry. In the first chase John Wells and Alex Hunt were the "foxes." Charlie Hanson, who did some clever tracking, was the first to catch them, and did so a few feet ahead of Rupe Neily and Dick McGillicuddy.

The whole school and a few masters took part in the second paper chase, which was held for the prize of a steak dinner. Mr. Hearn's table won; the lucky winners were Williamson, Joy, King, Ross, and Hunter. The "foxes," Wells and McGillicuddy, and Norman Fox, the first to catch them, also received steaks.

The two meets in which the cross country team competed were run on the Thurlow's Bridge road course. The first with Reading High School was lost against experienced runners, but the Governor competitors, composed of Wells, McGillicuddy, Hastings, Hanson, Bixby, Hess, Hunt, Flint, and Foster, ran hard. Wells and McGillicuddy came in fifth and sixth places respectively. The second encounter was also with a much stronger outfit, the Andover Seconds, who took the first five places. Confer won in 14:45. The Governors pressed, however, and finished in the order of the team given above, with the exception of Neily who placed after Wells.

Cross country is a sport in which experience counts for a great deal, and therefore we hope that the future will bring new records for the School course. Coach Lacey believes that with the help of experienced runners the 1937 team will be able to carry through a successful season.

The Wrestling Season

ADOLF HAFENREFFER
Captain

This year the Academy was represented by a wrestling team for the first time since 1933. The revival of this ancient sport was due to the interest shown by three ardent exponents of the game: Paul Comins, Adolf Haffenreffer, the new captain, and Percy Goodale.

When the coach, Mr. Kirk, called for candidates for the squad, fourteen men responded. Workouts were held in the mail room of the Gymnasium, which was renovated for the exclusive use of the grapplers. Money was raised by a calendar-selling campaign before and during the Christmas holidays, and was used for the purpose of having the wrestling mat repaired. Much enthusiasm was shown by the squad in doing these various outside tasks before the wrestling season had actually begun.

The team showed power in their first meet of the season, with the Newburyport Y. M. C. A. in the Lang Gymnasium; with the exception of one match the Governors won every bout, and of those bouts all except one were by falls.

On February 6, a team of six journeyed to Cambridge and defeated the Browne and Nichols School by an overwhelming score. Haffenreffer beat the undefeated Woodman by a time decision in a thrilling bout.

The team met its only defeat of the season at the hands of the Andover Seconds by the score of 25-18. Although Andover was victorious, they won but two of their seven matches by falls.

The wrestling season ended at home on March 11, at which time the Governors defeated the Thayer Academy grapplers by the score of 23 to 3. Hunt, Griswold, Fellows, and Field won their matches by falls, and Haffenreffer won his by a time decision. Ed Hastings lost by a time decision in a close bout.

Much credit for the fine showing of the team goes to Mr. Colin Kerr of Lawrence and to Coach Kirk of the faculty.

The members of this year's team who will return to form a nucleus of next year's squad are Hastings, Fellows, Schanzle, Jones, and Field.

The Winter Track Season

MR. STEBBINS
Coach

The winter track team, ably coached by Mr. Stebbins, was found not to be lacking in good material, and was somewhat favored by the weather. A month of concentrated practice prepared the Governors for the Eastern Seaboard Interscholastic Relay Carnival at the Boston Garden on February 8. In this meet the quartet of Rupert Neily, Jack Foster, Charley Hanson, and Captain Stafford King excelled in their main objective, which was the medley relay. Captain King ran his half-mile leg in the excellent time of 1:59.4. The Red and White baton-passers won the race in 3:49.2.

The Governors met Browne and Nichols School and Tabor Academy at Cambridge on February 29, and King joined the ranks of the leading scholastic 1000-yarders by closely pursuing the state-champion, Won-son of Tabor, to the tape in 2:29. Joe Hoague, a discovery of two days before, won the shot-put with 41 feet, 7 inches, and Tom Logan was third. Charles Hanson won the 300-yard run, and Rupe Neily and Chandler Fuller placed second and third respectively in the 600. Joe Hoague was third in the high-jump. Governor Dummer was second to Tabor in the meet.

The Harvard Private School Meet brought a great duel between King and Wonson, wherein both runners entirely outdistanced the field and lowered the meet record time. King lost by less than a yard in 2:23.7. Hanson placed fifth in the 300 in the best time of his career, and Fuller, unchallenged, won his heat in that event. Rupe Neily took third in the fastest heat of the 600-yard run, and Jack Foster reached the semi-finals in the dash. For the most part, the members of the Governors' team, which won fifth place in this meet, showed distinct improvement and did their tasks honorably.

The winter track season at Governor Dummer, providing occasions for competitive experience, produced some first-class performances. The season's primary service was in training in anticipation of spring practice, and even those who did not gain places in the various meets will benefit by the work they did during the winter.

The Ski Season

JOHN BENTON
Coach's Assistant

Skiing was introduced this year as a regular winter sport. Last year there had been an outing club, but no formal competition. The skiers started their training with practice on the golf course, which proved good for the cross country event.

The first meet was one which would have tested the skill of even an experienced team. The Governors met Brooks School and Andover in a triangular contest and came out third. The course was somewhat more difficult than the home trail. There were some promising performances, however. Tommy Sanders qualified for a second trial in the slalom race; Shel Harris was second in the downhill; and Jack Bell won the cross country in good time.

On February 8, the Governors entered an open meet at Amesbury. Jack Bell won a third place in the cross country race. Shel Harris, who was jumping for form rather than for distance, just failed to score.

An informal competition with Brooks School on the Brooks course helped get the team ready for the coming interscholastic meet. The steep trails and suitable snow gave the Byfield skiers some of their best practice of the season.

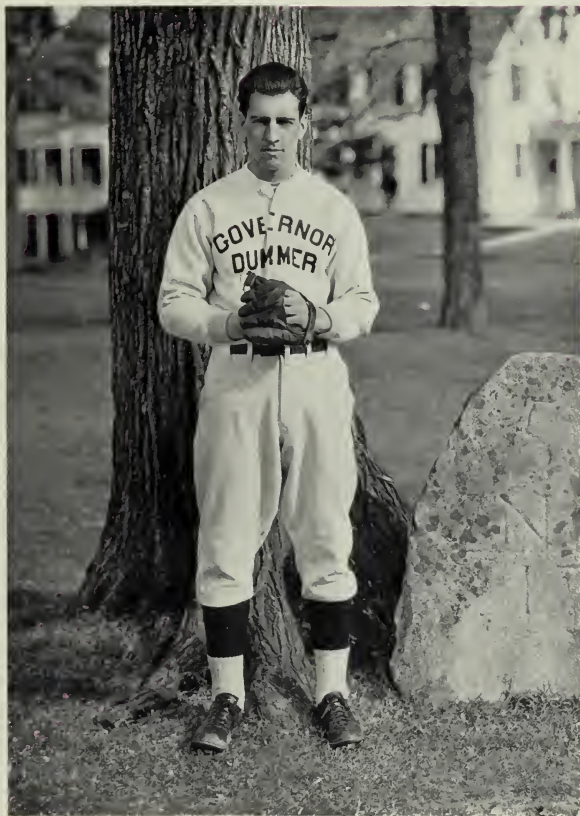

The final and most important meet was the Eaglebrook Interscholastics. A large field of skiers from some dozen schools competed on the fine Eaglebrook course. The Governors failed to score, but did well in the face of such hard competition. Harris was fifth, just out of the scoring, in the ski-jump. The good form which he employed counted for more than his distance of 66 feet in giving him such a high place among the competitors. Bell was thirteenth among the numerous cross country skiers.

Tommy Nathan showed great improvement through the season; Fred Brehm and Tommy Sanders were useful members of the team. The latter was the best skier in the slalom although he had never done this event before the season started. Ed Hatheway, Dave Harris, and Pen Hildreth were reserves who made good progress.

The Baseball Season

Coach

The Governor Dummer Baseball Team started the season with a handful of returning players, among whom were Captain Fred Cool, Aaron Goodale, Fran Hearn, and Joe Hoague. Bovenizer, McMenimen, and Olsen had come up from the second squad last year, and have been ready to serve with the team this year. The newcomers who have been playing in the games thus far are Adams, Carver, Donnelly, Floyd, Hale, Lawler, Maloy, and Zins.

On a cold and windy day the season started against Austin Cate. Lefty Hale began pitching, but because of a sore arm he later gave way to Bill Maloy, who held the opponents in check. The home team had the lead for five innings but let it go when the Austin Cate players drove in four runs in the sixth.

Ed Donnelly and Mike Lawler did some good hitting in the Harvard Junior Varsity game. Four errors interfered, however, with the Governors' effectiveness. Jim Adams pitched well until the seventh inning, when Harvard made three runs. Bovenizer was called in to take his place.

After trailing by a margin of six runs in the first four innings, the team downed the Groton nine by seven runs. Bob Hale went in to pitch in the sixth and held the visitors scoreless for the rest of the game. Ed Donnelly did some outstanding playing at third base and at bat during the afternoon. Out of four trips to the plate, he pounded a home run and two doubles. Fred Cool, Aaron Goodale, and Bob Hale each made two hits.

When Joe Hoague went in to bat in the last half of the ninth inning of the Belmont Hill contest, the score was tied at 10-10. Joe managed, however, to smash out a double that scored Johnny Carver and defeated the opponents. It was in this game that a ball from Carver's bat glanced off the pitcher's chest and rebounded to the Belmont catcher in time to nail Fran Hearn who was coming in from third.

The Deerfield game, which takes place on Commencement Day will bring the season both to a climax and an end. The outcome of this game is eagerly anticipated.

Mr. Hearn, who is serving his first year as head coach, and Mr. Phippen, his assistant, consider that this season's potentialities are more than usually great, and that there are more victories in sight.

MR. SAGER
Coach

Twenty-five promising candidates reported for spring track to the three coaches, Mr. Sager, Mr. Stebbins, and Mr. Lacey. Among the experienced men were Staff King, Rupert Neily, Charlie Hanson, Chan Fuller, and Dick Curtis. These veterans have performed even above expectation in the meets thus far. Captain Stafford King not only lowered his own record for the half mile in the New Hampshire Interscholastics, but also beat the former mark of the meet by a second. His time was 2:2.6. In the triangular meet with Milton Academy and Milton High School he again won his race, in 2:7.6. It was in the New Hampshire meet that Staff beat Keating of St. John's Prep, who had formerly won the National Interscholastic 880 at Madison Square Garden. King has also been competing in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. The javelin event was of a high standard at the New Hampshire Interscholastics. The winner, Jones, of Wasoonkeag School, threw 171 feet, seven inches. Dick Curtis gained second place with 160 feet, eight inches, eight inches further than Brewer's throw at the same meet last year. In the contest with Haverhill High School the coaches were surprised to see that Curtis had developed skill in the shot-put and the discus-throw as well as maintaining his form in the javelin. These three events were a clean sweep for him. His distance in the javelin was 158 feet; the shot, 42 feet, ten inches; and the discus, 105 feet, six inches.

Rupert Neily, placed fourth in the 440 at Durham. He has also taken first places in the hurdles. Morgan Batten has been a great asset in the broad jump, high jump, and pole vault. Clark Neily, Leonard and Gordon Ellis, John Wells, and Paul Comins are members of the team who have done well in competition. Clark Neily, who has hitherto had little experience, has already done 2:12 for the 880.

Ed Brush, John Connelly, Charles Fellows, Putnam Flint, Adolph Haffenreffer, Shel Harris, Don Hastings, and Ed Hastings have competed and are progressing in their respective events. Coach Sager should be commended for his development of both experienced and inexperienced material.

The Golf Season

JOSEPH WILLIAMSON
Captain

Golf has been one of the most popular sports at Governor Dummer this spring. Although many more picked golf as their choice of athletics, the squad was necessarily limited to 20 because of lack of time in which to play.

Four members of last year's team, Joe Williamson, Peter Carpenter, Jim Walsh, and Cordis Sargent have returned to form a nucleus for the 1936 team. The new players are Tom Logan, and Russ Potter, who was on the squad last spring. Logan has played at number one position, Walsh at two, Carpenter and Williamson at three and four, and Sargent and Potter at five and six. The captain of the team is Joe Williamson, who, taking over the position held last year by his brother, has been the only member to win all his matches.

In its first competition the golf team was defeated by Lexington High School at the Lexington Golf Club. Carpenter and Williamson played a superb match to win three points in their foursome. Logan and Walsh added the other Governor point by winning nine holes. Potter and Sargent failed to score.

Malden High School was defeated at the Ould Newbury Golf Club in the opening match of the home season. Pete Carpenter and Joe Williamson swept their match, garnering three points. Tom Logan and Jim Walsh added two more points by winning. Cord Sargent and Russ Potter won one and a half points in the closest match of the day. The first nine, second nine, and the eighteen hole matches were all halved, giving one and a half points to each side.

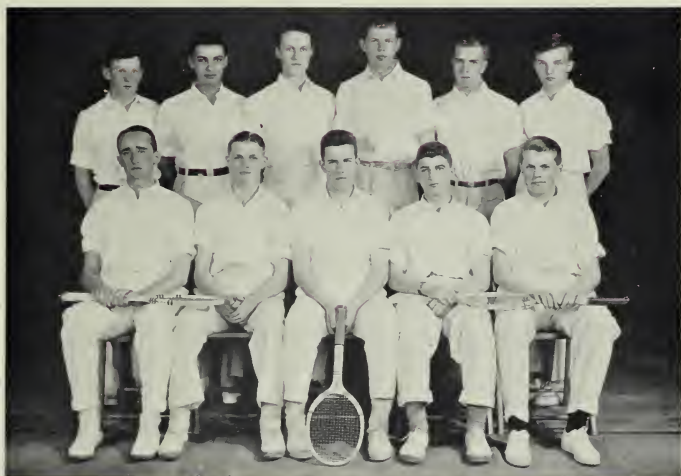

Phillips Exeter defeated the Governors by the decisive score of 8-1. Joe Williamson won the lone point for the team by his match after 20 holes of brilliant playing. The Exeter golfers were definitely superior, although the team played very well in an effort to defeat their opponents.

The Golf Team journeyed to the Stoney Brae Golf Club in Quincy on May 13, to trounce Thayer Academy. Logan and Walsh halved the first nine holes with their opponents to drop half a point. The remainder of the team won their matches quite handily.

Other matches will be those played with Phillips Andover and with Ould Newbury.

The only members of the team who will return next year are Peter Carpenter, and Russell Potter, but if several members of the squad improve as they should, Governor Dummer will be represented by a good team next spring.

The Tennis Season

GORDON VAUGHAN
Captain

The Tennis Team of 1936 was stronger than that of last year. Those who had formerly played on the team showed improvement in spite of a late start in practice.

There were four veterans back on the team. They were Gordon Vaughan, one of the most steady and reliable players on the squad; Jack Benton, who has played the best game at number one position for two years; Alex Hunt, who has shown great all-around ability; and Dudley Follansbee, a skillful player in both singles and doubles who had the misfortune to be out of the early season matches.

The new members of the team included Willard Voorhees, who proved to be an able doubles partner and was noted for a beautiful backhand shot; Martin Busch, who turned out to be an important mainstay for the team at number two position; and Adrian Hasse, one of the younger yet more capable players, who ought to be excellent material for next year's team.

Since the courts took some time to prepare, the practice for the first match was short and irregular. The result of this first match was a defeat for the Governors; Browne and Nichols School won, 3-2. The home team played, however, very well with Busch taking an exciting singles set and Captain Vaughan and Busch easily winning their doubles.

The next match was played at Thayer Academy and proved to be an exciting one, although the team lost, 4-3. The opposing players were more experienced. Jack Benton put up a hard fight against the New England junior champion, but lost in a close contest. Gordon Vaughan and Willard Voorhees took a long-fought match, and Vaughan and Hunt won one set in their doubles, and were ahead in the second set when their opponents defaulted because of darkness. This contest showed a better quality of play on the Governors' side, and probably insures a good season.

Mr. Murphy, the tennis coach, has given excellent instruction to the individual members of the squad, and it is expected that some of the present players, with little experience, will be on the team next year.

The Archon

This year The Archon was under the direction of co-editors, Robert McMenimen and Cordis Sargent, who worked on alternate issues throughout the school season. Francis Hearn was the circulation manager, Louis Block was the advertising manager, and Frederic Lovejoy the photographic editor.

The Archon is a magazine of twenty pages put out twice each term, six times a year, by the boys with the assistance of Mr. Benjamin Stone of the faculty. Its purpose is to keep the students, alumni, and friends of the school well informed of all campus activities; and after many years of conscientious endeavor on the part of a great number of students, it has achieved a high degree of perfection.

Although under a new staff, The Archon experienced no radical changes, continuing to follow the style introduced last year, which consisted besides the regular events in school life, of a Literary Department and a Feature Page. The former was in the nature of a prize composition selected for each issue by Mr. Thomas Mercer of the English Department; the latter included two addresses, "The Doctrine of a Strenuous Life" by Mr. James Duncan Phillips, President of the Board of Trustees, and "Old Newbury" written by the Reverend Glenn Tilley Morse in his capacity as president of the Historical Society of Old Newbury. Mr. Joseph Allen and Mr. Leslie Lacey, both of the faculty, contributed "A Glimpse of the Orient" and "The Colman Family," respectively, to the Feature Page. The Alumni Notes, which comprised news of graduates, was continued as was the More Briefly column, and both were very popular. Frederic Lovejoy, as photographic editor, kept The Archon well and interestingly supplied with pictures of athletics and many campus scenes.

Under the direction of Louis Block the Advertising Department inserted five and one-fourth pages of advertising, which is a slight increase over last year's five and one-eighth pages. Credit must also go to Francis Hearn, the circulation manager, who worked laboriously to see that all subscribers were supplied with their copies, and whose endeavors were correspondingly successful.

The unusual excellence of the athletic teams and the great interest in them were reflected in the reporting of the various athletic contests. Willard Voorhees and David Williams as the chief sports writers are to be commended on the fine quality of their department. The Archon has also continued to support whole-heartedly the Building Campaign Committee, which has been attempting to gain sufficient funds for a new building to be started this spring and completed by the fall. The staff hopes that such an amount may be speedily raised and that the new edifice will take its place on the campus as planned.

The editors and all those on The Archon board wish to express their feelings of gratitude to Mr. Benjamin Stone for his splendid advice and encouragement throughout the year.

Papyrus

An interesting journalistic endeavor of the student body this year was the formation of a weekly paper by a group of boys headed by Robert McMenimen as editor-in-chief, Francis Hearn as business manager, and Louis Block as advertising manager. The paper, called the Papyrus, contained four pages, and was printed by the Herald Press in Newburyport.

News pertaining to school life was included in the Papyrus as well as several feature articles of special interest to the student body. One of the departments most enthusiastically received was the Man of the Week column in which the Papyrus selected each week the boy who in its opinion had done the most for the School. Two other well-liked features were the humorous columns, Gibber by Percy Goodale and David Harris, and Here and There by Alex Hunt and William Earnshaw. Past Performances, a column recalling the events of other years, was written each week by Putnam Flint.

The Papyrus must thank the advertisers for their generous support which insured the financial success of the paper, and acknowledgment must go to Louis Block, advertising manager, for his tireless and sincere work in his department.

The first issue of the Papyrus, which was entirely a student enterprise, appeared on March 7, and its publication continued for the following six weeks of the school year. At this time it was deemed advisable to discontinue further publishing in order that the board might give more time to school work and to the many activities of the spring term. The Papyrus was, however, in every way a great success, and its short life provided a fine experience to those connected with it. When the time came for discontinuing the paper, each member of the board felt that he had by his own efforts added appreciably to his education.

The Glee Club

The Governor Dummer Glee Club, under the leadership of Mr. Arthur W. Sager, has had an unusually successful season. In the latter part of October, 80 persons, or more than two-thirds of the School took try-outs to determine those who should fill the places made vacant through graduation. With so many applicants, it was possible for Mr. Sager to choose the voices of better quality. Rehearsals for the 48 members of the Club took place on Tuesday and Friday evenings. The music classes, in which members of the Glee Club obtained a half-point credit for college, have aided materially in the success of the organization. This year the Club has been very fortunate in having an unusually fine bass section. The precedent that the captain of the football team join the Glee Club has remained unbroken with the presence of Paul Comins in the second tenor section.

The Glee Club made its first appearance of the year when it entertained a meeting of the National Association of Camp Directors at the Wayside Inn at Sudbury on March 7, and on this occasion it did a very creditable piece of work.

On April 16, a concert was given in the Newburyport City Hall for the benefit of flood sufferers. Much valuable experience was gained from this performance.

After intensive rehearsals for several weeks, the Club entertained the Glee Club of the Bancroft School, a private school for girls, on April 25, in a joint concert. This affair, which took place in the Lang Gymnasium, was one of the highlights of the season. Two Bach chorales, "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light," and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," sung by the combined clubs, opened the program. Each Club then sang two groups of songs, following which the concert ended by the two groups singing "Henceforth Strephon" from Iolanthe, and the stirring, "When the Foeman Bares His Steel" from The Pirates of Penzance. The numbers sung by the boys included "My Chosen King" by Bach, "Adoramus Te" of Palestrina, "The Prisoner's Chorus" from Fidelio by Beethoven, the negro spiritual "Deep River," a German folk song "Gute Nacht," and a Scotch folk song "Bonnie Dundee." At the conclusion of the concert a dance took place in the gymnasium.

On May 16, the Glee Club held a joint concert with the Westbrook Junior College of Portland, Maine, at the Eastland Hotel in Portland. The numbers sung by the combined clubs included the beautiful "Oh, Blest Are They" by Tchaikowsky, and "The Policeman's Chorus" from The Pirates of Penzance. The numbers sung by the boys were the same as in the Bancroft concert except that "The Arkansas Traveler" was substituted for "The Prisoner's Chorus."

The Glee Club will bring to a close an unusually successful season with the annual Commencement Concert on June 5.

The credit for the success of the Glee Club goes to Mr. Sager who has expended much time and effort in the interests of the organization. To Mr. Stone, the accompanist, and to Mrs. Sager also, goes much credit for helping to build the finest Club that has yet represented Governor Dummer.

The Dances

The annual fall dance was held on Saturday, December 14, in the Lang Gymnasium. The Committee of the dance was composed of Joseph Williamson, Chairman; Paul Comins, Edward Donnelly, Richard Francis, Percy Goodale, Edward Hastings, John Hubbard, and Alexander Hunt. The music was provided by Bob Richman and his orchestra.

The MILESTONE Dance, which is held in the spring of every year, took place on Saturday, May 9. Bob Richman again furnished the music. The gym was skillfully decorated by the committee, with Japanese lanterns, apple blossom, and posters of different parts of the world. Alexander Hunt, Chairman; Morgan Batten, Allen Dodge, Marvin Fox, Richard Francis, Aaron Goodale, Percy Goodale, Sheldon Harris, Francis Hearn, and Benjamin Stewart made up the committee, which was responsible for the great success of the evening.

The Amateur Show

A new form of entertainment took place at the Academy on the evening of February 15, in the presentation of an amateur show. Some fifty boys participated and it was a very interesting performance. Percy Goodale acted as master of ceremonies. The committee that arranged the show was made up of William Earnshaw, Chairman; Putnam Flint, Norman Fox, Percy Goodale, David Harris, Stafford King, Thomas Logan, Benjamin Stewart, and Robert Redburn. Mr. Sager directed the program and is to be congratulated upon it. Those who won first prizes for their talent were Percy Goodale and William Earnshaw, Melvin Salwen, and a Moody House group of Abbott Gordon, Gordon Ellis, Norman Fox, John Hatch, Howell Kitchell, Leonard Poor, William Sheffield, and Philip Simpson. Those winning second prizes were Louis Block, Alexander Hunt, Charles Fellows, Benjamin Stewart, and Richard Cary; Paul Comins, Aaron Goodale, and Adolph Haffenreffer. Third prizes went to Gillett Griswold, Donald Kirkpatrick, and Joseph Hoague, and Martin Busch and William Earnshaw. A special prize was awarded to Bill Maloy.

The Science Show

Spectacular exhibitions of chemical and physical phenomena were shown to a large audience composed of the School and guests in the third annual Science Show, held on the evening of March 6, in the Lang Gymnasium. Eight members of Mr. Kirk's physics and chemistry classes performed twenty-four experiments, and each participant was introduced and questioned by Putnam Flint on the nature of his demonstration. Richard Francis acted as stage manager; the stage was placed across the gymnasium floor on the side of the large windows. The experiments were made, except for Edwin Hatheway's steam engine and Richard Curtis' large geyser, on a long table set upon the stage. The table was draped with a white cloth bearing the names of various famous scientists, with symbols representing the contributions of these men to science.

Richard Curtis demonstrated three geysers in action. His largest, which was eight feet high, was modelled after those of Bunsen and Tyndall, and has been presented to the physics department at Harvard. Joseph Williamson exhibited fire foam and fire extinguishers in a series of experiments with the well-known carbon dioxide. Perhaps the most exciting spectacle of the evening was William Earnshaw's demonstration of combustion, for which he used an inclined trough with heavy gas fumes.

Edwin Hatheway showed the development of the steam engine by models of Hero's first century apparatus and a modern one. The varying colors in the light of the setting sun were demonstrated by David Foss when he flashed an arc light through a chemically charged tank of water. He also carried out a photo-chemical reaction which blew a rubber ball to the rafters of the gymnasium. Charles Fellows performed several delayed time reactions and made Sterno canned heat; Leonard Ellis exhibited chemical luminescence, one of the most beautiful experiments of the evening; and Harwood Burdett showed the familiar electric eye and a Cottrell smoke consumer.

Exhibitions and Sketching

The greatest undertaking of the sketching classes this year has been the construction of the huge football mural, 40 feet long by 17 feet broad, which is shown in the photograph above. It was used to cover the entire end wall of the gymnasium at the Christmas Banquet.

Through the efforts of Mr. Morey Eames, instructor of painting and drawing, there have been the following exhibits at the school during the year:

October 1-November 1—N. MOREY EAMES	Drawings and Paintings
November 1-November 27—OMER LASSONDE	Paintings
December 1-December 17—SEARS GALLAGHER	Water Colors
December 26-January 7—J. DANA ALLEN	Photographs of Japanese Temple Statuary
January 15-February 20—DOROTHY DUNN and EDYTHE L. EAMES	Paintings
February 1-February 24—ALLIED ARTISTS OF AMERICA	Etchings
February 20-March 16—ADDISON GALLERY OF AMERICAN ART (Andover)	Water Colors
April 6-April 24—HARRY SUTTON, JR.	Paintings
April 19-April 24—FACULTY SKETCHING CLASS	Drawings and Paintings
May 20-June 17—FRANK W. BENSON	Recent Water Colors
June 1-June 5—ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF SKETCHING CLASS

Lectures and Trips

- November 13—Lecture by Omer Lassonde
- February 9—Sketching Class Trip to Boston Public Library and Boston Art Club
- February 23—Trip to Gardiner Museum and Van Gogh Exhibit
- February 24—Moving Picture: Wyman Adams, Painting a Portrait
- April 22—Lecture by Harry Sutton, Jr.
- May 12—Talk on Silver by Mr. Marshall of Towle Silver Co.

Eight prizes were won by members of the sketching and painting classes in a Sketching Class Exhibit at the Newburyport Y. M. C. A. Hobby Show on May 1, and 2. John Benton and John Field took first prizes.

Commencement of 1935

Since THE MILESTONE goes to the press before the Commencement activities of the current year take place, the Board presents, as is customary, a record of the Commencement of the previous year.

The Baccalaureate Service was held at the Adelynrood Chapel on Sunday, June second. Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, former Headmaster of Phillips Academy at Andover, delivered the sermon, in which he spoke of the visions that come to men. The Reverend Glenn Tilley Morse of the Board of Trustees assisted in the service. The exhibition of the Sketching Class and Camera Club took place later in the afternoon. Prizes for painting went to William Georgi and Parker Kitchell for their Campus views, and Henry MacCready won the drawing award with "The Mansion House Kitchen."

As the sun sank below the horizon on the evening of Thursday, June sixth, the School gathered about a fire on Sunset Hill for the Senior Sing. Before the students and a large crowd of visitors the first 1935 MILESTONE was presented by the editor-in-chief, Robert J. Sommer, to Mr. George W. Adams of the class of 1873, to whom the book was dedicated. The seniors then marched down the hill and around the historic milestone while the undergraduates on the top of the hill sang "The Senior Song."

The Graduation Exercises were held on Friday, June seventh, which turned out to be a pleasantly sunny day. President J. Edgar Park of Wheaton College gave the address. The prizes, given annually at this time, were presented by Mr. Eames. Mr. James Duncan Phillips, President of the Board of Trustees, awarded the diplomas. After the Graduation Exercises the Glee Club made its final appearance of the year, and a buffet luncheon on the lawn in front of Commons followed. A baseball game with Deerfield in the afternoon was attended by a large gathering. Later in the afternoon there was a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Ingham.

The annual Alumni Dinner was the last event of the day. The toastmaster was the Reverend Carroll Perry of Ipswich. The speakers of the evening were Dr. Charles S. Ingham, Mr. James Duncan Phillips, and Dr. George F. Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation.

SPECIAL PRIZES

To Laird Fortune Covey of Torrington, Connecticut, who, entering the junior school six years ago, has steadily matured in scholarship and manhood, until today masters and boys are proud to refer to him affectionately as "our oldest living undergraduate."

To Peter Whitford Folger of Nantucket and Joseph Whelpley Ballard, Jr., of Greenfield and George Seiders Davis of Portland, Maine, three seniors who are distinguished among us by their good nature as well as by the faithful, conscientious, and successful performance of their work.

To Frank Shepard Abbott of West Medford, a senior who in one year established himself as a popular and respected leader among the new boys.

To George Chandler Fuller of West Newton and William Paine Sheffield, III, of Newport, Rhode Island, who are distinguished among the underclassmen for scholastic effort and accomplishment, as well as for their personal qualities.

To Robert James Sommer of Tacoma Park, Washington, D. C., and William Emery Mulliken, Jr., of Lexington, and Henry Law Petri of Brookline, three seniors of highly colorful and widely different temperaments, each of whom has played a prominent part in the life of the campus during the last two years, and each of whom has in his own way made important contribution to the life of his school.

To Gerry Johnston Dietz of Albuquerque, New Mexico, a boy of native intelligence, refreshing humor, and independent opinion; a boy who has impressed his headmaster by his mature sense of values; finally, a boy who during his four years at Governor Dummer has succeeded in preserving his own individuality in the face of considerable, if not at times, concerted, opposition.

To Donald Lawrence of Portland, Maine, a boy who for four years has tried energetically to win a place on a school athletic team. Don is one of those boys who either through lack of ability or through sheer misfortune has never quite been able to win his school letter, but who because of his enthusiasm, his hard work and his loyalty deserves this award many times over.

Acknowledgments

Every year there are friends of THE MILESTONE who, although not actively engaged in work on the staff, give their willing help to many of the details of publication. This year we have especially to thank

The Academy for the use of some of the splendid plates made for its campaign booklet

Mr. Thomas McC. Mercer for his kind advice

Mr. and Mrs. Morey Fames for their art work and their suggestions

Mr. and Mrs. Dunning who have helped with the reading of the proof

Mr. Joseph Snyder whose aid each year in securing advertisements has become increasingly valuable

Mr. Harold A. Johnson of the Andover Press for his aid in an advisory capacity and for his cooperation

Alex Hunt and the MILESTONE Dance Committee, and the boys whose attendance at the dance greatly aided THE MILESTONE exchequer

And the advertisers whose part in the publication is of such an integral nature.

Good Yearbooks Don't "Just Happen"

THEY may vary tremendously in size, design, and cost, but all successful yearbooks have one thing in common . . . they represent hours of careful planning and painstaking workmanship.

The 1936 Milestone is no exception. The staff has worked long and diligently in order to make it an interesting and accurate record of the school year.

It has been our privilege to assist in the publication of the book, working in close association with the members of the board. We wish to take this opportunity to thank them for their co-operation and to congratulate them on the results of their labors.
